JOE BLACKBURN

Elected Once More to the
U. S. Senate.

Will Succeed Senator Lindsay
On March 4, 1901, For Six Years.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 11.—The election of the Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn to the United States Senate was confirmed yesterday by the General Assembly in joint session. A vote was not taken, the law only requiring that the journals of the two houses showing how the vote stood yesterday should be compared, and directing that the candidate who had received a majority of the votes cast in each house should be declared duly elected.

At noon the Senate and House exchanged notifications of their readiness to go into joint session. The only absentees were Senators Hill, Alexander, Hays and Jones and Representatives Lafferty and William Ray. Messrs. Hill, Lafferty and Ray were ill, and Senator Jones was forced to absent himself on account of other business. Senators Hays and Alexander absented themselves because they did not want to vote either for Blackburn or Bradley.

It was shown by a comparison of the journals of the two houses that Mr. Blackburn had received a majority of the votes in each house, the total being 79 for Blackburn and 54 for Bradley.

There was some applause from the galleries, but the Democrats are saving all demonstrations until after the election next Wednesday, when Senator Blackburn will make a speech of acceptance, and when W. I. Bryan will also speak before the joint assembly.

Eugene Armistead, of Montgomery, Ala., is on a visit to his parents.

Four Cars Derailed By Breaking Of An Axle.

North bound L. & N. freight No. 64, was wrecked about two miles south of this city at 9:30 o'clock p. m., Wednesday night, and four flat cars loaded with lumber were derailed. One of the cars was pretty badly torn up and the others were slightly damaged. The accident was caused by the breaking of an axle, and the wonder is that the whole train was not ditched, as it was moving at a lively rate of speed. Passenger train No. 54, north bound, was delayed about six hours, and the Chicago limited, south bound, about three.

EVANS-BARR.

Mr. Wm. M. Evans, of Louisville, and Miss Jennie M. Barr, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. W. H. Barr, were united in marriage at 9 o'clock a. m. Wednesday. The happy event took place at the home of the bride's parents, near Pembroke. Rev. J. S. Cheek, of Elmo, performed the ceremony. Mr. Evans is a linotype operator on the Louisville Times and is a very popular young man.

His bride is well known in this city and is a general favorite in social circles. She is a sister of Mrs. P. P. Huffman and Mrs. John J. Metcalfe.

After a visit to the groom's parents in Glasgow, the couple will make their home in Louisville.

Franklin County Grand Jury Examines Dick Knott and Others.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 11.—Many Louisville citizens were here yesterday in response to subpoenas from the grand jury which is making investigation as to the use of money in the recent campaign as well as to the part handled by Whallen. Among the witnesses here were: John and James Whallen, Frank McGrath, John Stites, Basil W. Duke, J. H. Ringgold, Tom Drewry, Attilla Cox, James Reedy, Allen R. Carter, R. W. Knott, Arthur M. Wallace and Clarence E. Walker. Several members of the Legislature went up to the arsenal yesterday afternoon and asked to be admitted. The man who came to the door peeped out through a crack in the door and refused to admit them. The Legislators say they saw men at work in the arsenal, but could not tell what they were doing.

There is no doubt that fully thirty soldiers are here in citizens' clothes under Lieut. Ward. Three of them are attending the A. and M. College at Lexington, where they joined the Second regiment. They left school when drafted for this service, and to-day they told several friends that they were ordered here and were being paid $1.50 a day. One of them, of Owensboro, said he understood that about thirty more were expected and that they would get off the train or the other side of the tunnel, which is behind the hill at the arsenal.

The Goebel-Taylor Contest Board met last night, but decided to adjourn until this morning; as some of the members were absent. They are going to hear some suggestions from the attorneys as to the procedure of the board.

New Deputy Sheriff.

ENGINE DERAILED.

Bold Attempt to Wreck an I. C. Passenger Train.

An attempt was made to wreck the outgoing Illinois Central passenger train at Green's crossing, about 5:15 a. m. Tuesday. A steel rail had been placed upon the track, well braced, and when the engine hit the obstruction it was partially derailed, the front trucks leaving the track. Barring a slight shake-up among the passengers no one was hurt. As soon as the Gracery agent learned the facts the matter was reported at Princeton and an engine was sent up and took the train on the balance of the run. The wrecked engine was taken to Gracery and later to the company's shops for repairs. Traffic was delayed about six hours.

As soon as the attempted wreck was reported suspicion rested upon a passenger, who had been put off the train at Green's the night before, and the marshal of Gracery was notified. He came up on the train due here 9:30 a. m., and on reaching Green's, arrested Prince Gary, col., who got aboard the train at that point. The negro was taken into custody on suspicion of having committed the crime. He was brought here at once and lodged in jail.

Gary waived formal examination before Judge Cassler Wednesday and, in default of a $1,000 bond, was remanded to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Tribute of Respect.

Henry H. Bryant died in White river bottoms, Arkansas county, Arkansas, Nov. 26, 1899, from a gunshot wound accidentally inflicted while watching the packing away by a friend of a rifle supposed to be unloaded.

Death as a sequence of a very long life, although looked for by all, is a shock and a severance of many tender ties, which time may measurably heal, though never fully cure; but when it singles out for its victim a man in vigorous health, buoyed with expectancy and absorbed in the duties and pleasures of a immediately before him, and in a few minutes' time places that victim forever beyond the reach of all human ministrations of sympathy, love and service, our nature recoils with an unutterable horror and bruised hearts cry out in their agony against the suddenness and apparent cruelty of the unlooked-for blow. But there is a power over all, greater than all, directing these apparent happenings, whose ways are not our ways, and whose ways will never be fully revealed to us, while our mental and spiritual vision remains beclouded and distorted by the inherent sympathies of the human form. To some of us Mr. Bryant had been known from boyhood, to all of us for four years at least; and to all of us he appeared the same: a man of unostentatious habits of life, with a truly sympathetic heart harkening to the woes of his friends, a man unvaryingly upright in his purposes, courageous in his convictions and uncorruptible in all his dealings; therefore.

Resolved, by the Tobacco Board of Trade, that by his death this city has lost a good and useful citizen, the trade an honorable and upright inspector and many of us a trusted personal friend; while his family has lost an affectionate and indulgent husband and father, whose every care was truly directed to their pleasure and well being.

Resolved, That wotender his family our warmest sympathy in their distress, and that these resolutions be entered upon the records of the Tobacco Board of Trade, and a copy furnished the family of our dead comrade.

Where Soap is Unpopular.

In spite of British rule, India is virtually a soapless country. Throughout the villages of Hindustan soap is, indeed, regarded as a natural curiosity, and it is rarely if ever kept in stock by the native shopkeepers. In the towns it is now sold to a certain extent, but how small this is may be gathered from the fact that the yearly consumption of soap in India is about 100,000 hundredweight, that is to say, every 100 persons use on an average only 112 pounds of soap among them; or, in other words, considerably less than one ounce is the average consumption of a person.

Pretty Ancient Ceremony.

One part of the wedding ceremony among the Babylonians was very significant. The priest took a thread from the garment of the bride, and from the garment of the bridegroom, and tied them into a knot, which he gave to the bride. This is probably the origin of the modern saying about tying the knot in regard to marriage.

Don't call a man a fool—he may be foolish enough to fight.

GEN. VICENTE PERAZA.

He Will Represent the Troubled Republic of Venezuela as Minister at Washington.

The bloody and long-drawn-out revolution in Venezuela having at last come to a close, the new government, presided over by Gen. Castro, has selected as its representative in Washington Gen. Vicente Peraza.

Gen. Eleazar Bole-Peraza, the well-known Venezuelan litterateur and diplomat, was born June 4, 1858, in the city of Caracas, Venezuela. While yet a young man he took an active part in the political fights of his country and rose to the rank of general. He has achieved considerable reputation as an orator and is one of the foremost newspaper men in Venezuela. He has always been affiliated with the liberal party and has been assistant secretary of the interior and attorney general. He was a congressman from 1870 to 1878.

In 1889 he went to New York and founded and published for five years La Rivista Illustrada (Illustrated Review) and Las Tres Americas (The Three Americas). Both publications were printed in Spanish. Gen. Peraza was afterward a delegate to the Pan-American congress held in Washington in 1889, and at its close was appointed minister plenipotentiary to the United States. He has been consul general in New York of the republic of Salvador and later of the greater republic of Central America. He was a delegate to the universal postal congress in Washington in 1887. He took an active part in the revolution which resulted in the establishment of Gen. Castro's government.

THE APPLE ORCHARD.

Some of the Poetic Notions of Hawthorne Regarding It.

An orchard, says Hawthorne, has a relation to mankind, and readily connects itself with matters of the heart. The trees possess a domestic character; they have lost the wild nature of their forest kindred, and have grown humanized by receiving the care of man, as well as by contributing to his wants.

There is so much individuality of character, too, among apple trees that it gives them an additional claim to be the objects of human interest. One is harsh and crabbed in its manifestations; another gives us fruit as mild as charity. One is churlish and ill-tempered; others, again, are generous and hearty, and even exhausts itself in freckled benevolence.

The variety of grotesque shapes into which apple trees contort themselves has its effect on those who get acquainted with them; they stretch out their crooked branches and take such hold of the imagination that we remember them as humorists and odd fellows. And what is more melancholy than the old apple trees that linger about the spot where once stood a homestead, but where there is now only a ruined chimney rising out of the grassy and weed-grown cellar! They offer their fruit to every wayfarer—apples that are bitter-sweet with the moral of time's vicissitudes—Housewife (New York).

shirt, a glass diamond, a long drink and certain other evidences that he could be a minister of the gospel. The friendly stranger gave no intimation that he knew this man, but kicked him as he sat down. As the man didn't rise up and wipe the floor with the kick, Mr. Kasser decided that the pair knew more about each other than they seemed to know. Presently all quietness was engaged in conversation. Mr. Kasser answering all their questions about himself with a confident smile and accepting gracefully his friend's invitation to smoke a cigarette. The other two men had drinks and the friendly man paid for them. Then he said to Mr. Kasser:

"You don't drink anything, I see, but I guess you're out for a good time, eh?"

A slow, warm smile overspread the stranger's placid face.

"I thought so," cried the other. "There's a little game running uptown very quietly, and I can put you next. Say, my friend, he added to the man on the other side of the table, 'Do you play cards?'"

"Why, shoo-er-er!" growled he of the grotesque jaw.

"Come on, then; we'll all go there and have a little friendly game," said the friendly man, blithely.

He started to rise, but felt Mr. Kasser's hand on his shoulder and saw Mr. Kasser's menacing smile very close to his own face.

"Have you got a pencil?" asked Mr. Kasser.

"Pencil? Why, certainly. What do you want of it?"

"I want you to write your name on this piece of paper."

"What for? I won't do it."

The smile disappeared from the face of Mr. Kasser. His hand slipped along the shoulder of the friendly stranger and settled on his collar. The friendly stranger hastened across the street toward the office, not because he particularly wished to, but because a very muscular arm was propelling him. The third member of the trio came behind, saying, hoarsely:

"Leave 'im go. He's me fren. Leave 'im go or I'll ook yer!"

Mr. Kasser landed his man in front of the desk and addressed the clerk.

"Does this man live here?"

"No."

"You're a liar, then," said Mr. Kasser to his captive. The captive struggled.

"Ever see him here before?" Mr. Kasser asked the clerk.

"You're a bunko stealer and thief," said Mr. Kasser to the stranger.

Then he relaxed his grip and the man made a plunging sound upon the plump features of the stranger. That friendly person lopped over the desk and, conveniently placed, landed caught the life blood that flowed from his displaced nose.

Meantime the proprietor of the protruding jaw and the striped shirt was standing in the middle of the corridor looking uncertain as to what he had better do. He was quickly relieved of all uncertainties by Mr. Kasser, who, in a jump, grabbed him by the shoulders, whirled him around and planted a whirlwind kick. Thereupon the man fled by the way of the door. Some two dozen men who were scattered about the lobby crowded around Mr. Kasser and wanted to testify to their appreciation of his bold and manly deed.

"A simple-minded western man, but," he concluded, smiling benignantly at the toe of his right boot, "I have been in New York before."—N. Y. Sun.

The Villa Achilleon.

A Vienna paper bears from Corfu that the Villa Achilleon, the property of the late Empress Elizabeth, and afterward of her daughter, Archduchess Valerie, has been purchased by an Englishman for 1,000,000 francs, or about a sixth part of the original cost.

PO BOX SOUTH MAIN STREET.

—RIDAY, JAN. 12, 1900—

Rule 11 was a very good starter to separate the sheep from the goats.

Senator Watson has introduced a bill making lobbying a crime punishable by heavy penalties.

Dr. Hunter reached Kentucky on a sixty-day leave of absence, just in time to witness Joe Blackburn's triumph.

Dewey is now suing the government for $200 a head for the Spaniards he slew at Manila. After all, as our great hero a tin-foil idol?

Can it be possible that Whallen's fund of $4,500, used to stamp out Goebelism, was raised by 9000 of $100. Coleman's slot letters?

Maryland's redemption has been made complete by the inauguration of a Democratic Governor. In something like thirty days, Kentucky will send greetings to Maryland.

Senator Burnam, Republican, has introduced a bill to repeal the Goebel law and substitute the former law under which Kentucky was stolen in 1896.

Julia Morrison James, the actress who killed Frank Leidenheimer at Chattanooga, was acquitted Wednesday, after a trial that attracted wide attention.

The fund for the benefit of the family of the late Maj. Gen. Lawton has reached the magnificent sum of $86,569. Of this Maj. Gen. Shafter raised $10,121 in San Francisco.

France has officially adopted the 24-hour clock and the young man who had found it too early to leave his girl's house can now linger until 24 o'clock.

A French doctor announces that he has discovered serums that will prolong human life to 250 years. Maybe after all Bradley may some day be Senator from Kentucky.

Chief Justice Hazlerigg will hear the appeal in the injunction case involving the validity of Taylor's rump election board and has invited the whole court to sit with him. Argument was heard yesterday afternoon.

George Dixon, colored, feather-weight champion of the world for more than ten years and the winner of over 800 ring battles, was defeated by Terry McGovern, of Brooklyn, Tuesday night, in eight rounds.

The Louisville Times seems to fear that Hopkinsville will be one of Oom Taylor's rillyin pints when the insurance breaks out. Don't sneer yourself, honey. The Hopkinsville article fights with its mouth.

One contest case has been virtually settled, that of Young against Allen, the Democratic Senator from Lexington who is on the Goebel-Taylor committee. Young's petition was fatally defective and some of the Republican members of the committee agreed with the Democrats that he had no case. Allen will hold his seat.

MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

Directors Re-Elected—No Change Probable in Other Officers.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank was held Tuesday. The old board of directors were re-elected, as follows, B. S. Campbell, J. P. Prowse, A. B. Croft, J. W. Downer, C. F. Jarrett, R. W. Downer, Lee Ellis, G. H. Stone and Geo. C. Long. The directors will hold their meeting today for the purpose of electing a President, Vice-President and Cashier. We understand that no change is contemplated in these offices. Geo. C. Long, President, C. F. Jarrett, Vice-President, and Thos. W. Long, Cashier, are the present incumbents, and will probably be re-elected. Under the present management this bank has enjoyed a very prosperous business during the past year.

Mr. R. N. Wolf, a well known young farmer living a few miles south of the city, and Miss Lizzie Wilkins, daughter of Mr. Alex Wilkins, of the Pembroke neighborhood, were married at the residence of Judge Cassler Monday night. The latter performed the ceremony in the presence of numerous friends of the young couple. The young people arrived in the city from Pembroke on the accommodation at 8:30 p. m. and were immediately driven to Judge Cassler's residence, where the knot was tied.

It is Only Because What Has Been Said Around The Globe

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for croup." It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by R. C. Hardwick, Druggist.

It is not the clothes a man wears—it is the way his society wears that counts.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and it gives great satisfaction. These days of influenza there is nothing like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief within a very short time. The sales are growing and almost all are pleased with its prompt action.—South Chicago Daily Columbian. For sale by R. C. Hardwick, Druggist.

TWO CASES

Of Smallpox Reported in Trigg—Near Montgomery.

There are two cases of smallpox reported at or near Montgomery, Trigg county. The patients are colored and it is said that the disease is in a very mild form. The medical necessities of the cases are being attended to by a physician and very little interest is taken in the matter by the people. It is not thought that the disease will spread, as every precaution possible has been taken to confine it to the two victims.

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

The Discoverer of Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At druggists in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper.

Winsome May Sargent in "Other People's Money."

As an incident to the main story of "Other People's Money," there is a counter-plot which cleverly shows how the conceit may be extracted from man who thinks "he's the whole thing."

Hutchinson Hopper (the character played by Mr. Leroy) following his motto that "There is nothing so good as money, and no money so good as other people's money," has designs upon a fortune which belongs to a young girl, Tielka Van Sittart. To aid in his bright scheme he engages in what he imagines a desperate flirtation.

Tielka being up-to-date, and desirous of cutting an important figure in the world, grasps the situation immediately, allows the financial giant full sway, until in a ludicrous climax she contrives for him a rude awakening, teaches him that two can play at the same game and that other people's money is sometimes a dangerous stake.

Last season, Miss Sargent by the force of fascination and an artistic rendition of this oily velvety scheming coquette, made it one of the most delightful and refreshing characters in the whole play, and is scoring triumphantly this season. This little lady who made her debut with Madam Modjeska, bears a strong resemblance to Maud Adams, and is destined to become one of the popular actresses of the day. You enjoy her little pretenses. You fall into her little traps. You think her captivating. In a word, as you see her, as you hear her, you take off your figurative hat to her as a creature of beauty and winsomeness. At Holland's Opera House, Tuesday, Jan. 16.

SLIGHTLY STRONGER

Was the Local Tobacco Market This Week.

The local tobacco market this week opened under favorable conditions, and while the sales were not very large, ruling prices were quite satisfactory and there was considerable strength and activity displayed. The offerings showed better order and some better quality. Prices were a shade stronger than those of the previous week. Good stemming tobaccos are in demand. Receipts have not been very large since Jan. 1, but much of the weed was bulked during the past few days and is ready for stripping. From this date on receipts will improve.
